Annual Home Care Nursing Research Award

The award will provide $2,000 (U.S. dollars) to support your research that is planned or in progress. The priority focus this year is on core competencies needed for home-based professional nursing practice. The application may describe a literature review, project, or research to identify core clinical competencies; strategies to test and document competencies; or techniques to develop skills, knowledge, and competencies. Topics may include transition to home-based nursing practice, orientation programs, continuing education, mentoring, clinical ladder programs, core curriculum, or the nursing role in home-based professional nurse practice.

Eligibility is for Registered Nurses with a doctorate degree or current enrollment in a doctoral program who are studying an aspect of home care nursing. The funding is available to an individual researcher or a member of a research team.

The Award overview and application materials are available on the IHCNO website <https://ihcno.org/research-page/>.

Application Due Date is September 30, 11:59 pm EST
